

NEW RATE BILL WAS PRESENTED

Senate Hears The Proposed Substitute Measure For The First Time Last Night.

QUESTION AS TO ITS PASSING NOW

Opinion Is That It Does Not Please The Radical Element As Much As They Had Expected It Would.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

Madison, March 31.—Last night the assembly committee on railroads reported the railway rate commission bill back to the assembly in the form of a substitute. In substance the amended measure provides:

The Bill in Brief

First—For three commissioners, appointed by the governor by and with the consent of the legislature, the term of office to be six years and the salary $5,000 a year.

Second—The railroad companies are to make their rates and run their business as in the past, but all tariffs of a road are to be on file in the depot of the company, where they shall be accessible to the public, as are the interstate commerce tariffs now. In addition to the ordinary tariffs, all joint tariffs and all contracts with joint shippers are also to be kept on file where those desiring may see them.

Third—if for any reason it shall appear that any rate is unfair, or a complaint concerning any rate shall be made, the commission shall give the railroad company ten days' notice of a hearing at which the matter shall be investigated and, if the hearing demonstrates the unfairness of the rate, the commission can substitute a new rate which shall go into effect within 20 days thereafter, as recommended by President Roosevelt in the case of the interstate commission.

Fourth—Companies will be permitted to secure injunctions and all rate matters are given precedence in the Dane county circuit court, while an appeal from this court can be taken by either party to the supreme court of the state. There is to be no refund in the event of a rate established by the commission being overruled.

Fifth—Commodity tariffs are permitted for the encouragement of special industries, such as beet-sugar factories, etc.

Result of Much Work

Much time has been spent in the preparation of the substitute bill and it follows the recent utterances of President Roosevelt on the subject. Apparently the statements of the president have had great weight with the committee.

PROFESSOR WHITE DROWNS IN YOUNG'S CREEK FLOOD

The Accident Happened Just South Of Janesville—Roy Andrews Narrowly Escaped.

Prof. Montague White of Beloit college was drowned five miles south of the city at the mouth of Young's creek this afternoon. His companion, Roy Andrews, a student, narrowly escaped death. Prof. White is professor of oratory at Beloit college and

The report was by the unanimous vote of the assembly committee on railroads. While greatly modified, the measure which has received the approval of the committee contains the most important points of the original Hatten bill. In its present shape it is carefully written, every section having been thoroughly discussed and revised in the committee room.

When Speaker Lenroot called for reports from committees last night Chairman Braddock of the railroad committee was the first to offer his report.

Roads Make the Rates

The commission is to act as a board of review to examine the schedule of rates, and may order hearings to investigate unreasonable rates after giving the railroad companies ten days' notice as to the time and place of such hearing. If the hearing shows that the rates are unreasonable and discriminative the commission may substitute a reasonable rate. Either party to a controversy over rates, who may be dissatisfied with the decision of the commission, may have recourse to the courts but during the trial of the case the rate fixed by the commission will be in effect. Besides having the power to fix rates, the new bill gives the commission power to oblige the railroad companies to furnish adequate service to shippers. Cars must be furnished within a reasonable time after application is made for the service.

All Rebates Unlawful

Rebates of all kinds, secret rates or discriminative rates are forbidden. However, the commodity rate is preserved. A strong provision is made in the bill to allow this class of rates, but the commodity rate must be open to all shippers alike, there must be no unfair discrimination in its application.

Various Comments Heard

Various comments are heard on the measure. Some friends of the administration are a bit disappointed that the bill has been made less drastic than they had expected. Some anti-administration people have been heard to observe that the measure is not revolutionary nor violent. It is generally predicted that it will be passed.

MUST REMAIN SINGLE TO SHARE IN ESTATE

Missouri Man, Leaves $10,000 to Four Sisters on Condition That They Keep Clear of Matrimony.

St. Louis, Mo., March 31.—According to the terms of a quitclaim deed filed in the recorder's office at Clayton, a suburb, real estate valued at $10,000 is the price that awaits the one of the four daughters of H. W. Hough who succeeds the longest in avoiding marriage. The daughters are Misses Miriam, Jessie, Emeline and Effie Hough.

According to the deed the sisters are to share equally as tenants in common while they remain unmarried. If one weds her interest is to lapse to the others. If all marry but one she is to have the fee simple to all the property. If, however, she, too, marries, she is to be deprived of all interest in the property. In that event, the deed stipulates "the whole of the property shall vest in either of them who shall be a widow." The young women are well known in social circles. They refuse to explain or discuss the matter.

Tangier, March 31.—The steamer Hamburg, having on board Emperor William and party, arrived this morning. The Hamburg is accompanied by two French battleships which fired royal salutes, in which the town batteries joined. Owing to the rough sea, it was impossible for the Kaiser to disembark this morning as planned. The town was gaily decorated in honor of the Kaiser's visit.

Alleged Bigamist Is Held for Trial

Ira S. Moyer Must Face the Court at Keokuk on May 16—Janesville Wife Returns.

Mrs. Cecelia Goodman Moyer, Janesville wife of Ira S. Moyer the alleged bigamist, has returned from Keokuk, Iowa, where she testified against the man before the grand jury. At the conclusion of the hearing Moyer was bound over for trial on the 16th of May. Prosecuting Attorney Blood in a letter to Atty. Angie King of this city states that Janesville attorneys have been engaged to represent Moyer and that they will try to produce evidence to show that he was never married to Cecelia Goodman. The young woman's counsel thinks that they have a difficult task before them as she has the necessary papers to prove that they were wedded at the church at Union Centre, Juneau county, by Rev. Father Procha on August 2d last, after a special dispensation permitting her to marry a Protestant had been received from Rome. It is probable that the household possessions which were the property of the Janesville woman and were taken west by Moyer will be returned. The eighteen-year-old Keokuk wife has become reconciled to losing her husband and is reported to already have a more worthy one in view, as a successor.

LINVITCH HAS DEFINITE NEWS

Japanese Are Now Moving Forward Towards The Russian Lines...Wide Flanks.

PEACE WANTED IN ST. PETERSBURG

Colliers Of The Russian Fleet Ordered To Report At Hong Kong And Await Rest of Vessels There.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

St. Petersburg, March 31.—Linevitch reports the Japanese have begun a genuine advance of their main army with the wings far extended. Heavy reconnoissances are being made against the Russian center with the object of developing the Russian position.

Go to Hongkong

Port Louis, Island of Mauritius, March 31.—It is reported here the colliers accompanying Rojestvenski's squadron were ordered to go to Hongkong by way of Batavia, Island of Java.

Favors Peace

St. Petersburg, March 31.—The leading industrial paper publishes a strong article against the continuance of the war. It points out that 120 million pounds of corn, worth a hundred million roubles, is spoiling for lack of transportation. It says the agricultural and industrial situation is growing more desperate and peace is the only solution of the present problem.

France Prompts Russia.

Count Lamsdorf, minister of foreign affairs, communicated what may be called Russia's negative proposals to the French government. To France, indeed, belongs the credit of prompting her ally to enter upon the negotiations.

Diplomatic circles express the greatest praise for Count Lamsdorf's astuteness in opening the negotiations with the statement of the negative conditions, as he thereby reserves the whole field for compromise.

For instance, should the Japanese insist upon an indemnity Russia will be able to offer to retrocede the southern portion of the island of Saghalien.

Keep Up Show of War.

It is believed that Russia is preparing to draft troops for the Siberian frontier and to keep Admiral Rojestvenskiy cruising in the eastern waters as a demonstration of her readiness and ability to prolong the campaign.

The selection of President Roosevelt as mediator, which is due to Japan's initiative, is regarded in St. Petersburg as evidence of excellent discrimination. The Japanese thereby will secure a firm friend, who at the same time will make it a point of honor to bring the negotiations to a successful close, and who therefore would not have been likely to have accepted the difficult post of mediator if the Japanese intended to present exorbitant demands.

May Prolong Negotiations.

It will be presumptuous to expect an early conclusion of the treaty. In the opinion of the highest and most influential Russians the question of peace is altogether dependent upon internal conditions. If it unrest grows, peace will be hastened. If, contrary to expectation, the disorders subside the negotiations at Washington likely will be retarded. If, again, the Japanese demands prove incompatible with dynastic considerations the government will resort to a national assembly to decide on the question of peace or war.

It is rumored that a manifesto convening a zemski sobor will be issued on April 7.

ENVOY REQUESTS BOWEN'S RECALL

TO PROTECT FAITHFUL OFFICER

While Likely to Comply With the Demand for Removal President Roosevelt Proposes to Promote American Representative.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.)

Washington, March 31.—President Castro has notified President Roosevelt through his special envoy, Dr. Jose De Paul Jesus Paul, that Herbert W. Bowen, United States minister to Venezuela, is persona non grata.

Dr. Paul after an interview had with the president-cabled Gen. Castro that Mr. Bowen would be transferred to another port when a vacancy occurred.

Dr. Paul also requested that all questions relating to Venezuela be taken out of the hands of Assistant Secretary of State Loomis, who was minister to Venezuela, and became highly unpopular in Caracas.

President Roosevelt directed Dr. Paul to conduct the negotiations with Secretary Taft and the Venezuelan leaves Mr. Loomis will be immediately relieved of all connection hereafter with Venezuelan affairs.

Explains Friction.

In his conversation with the president Dr. Paul detailed at length the misunderstandings which existed and which he believed to be due in great part to Mr. Bowen's antagonism to Gen. Castro.

He was sure Gen. Castro had not meant any offense to President Roosevelt or the people of the United States in making his blunt statement in response to Mr. Bowen's demand for arbitration of the asphalt and other disputes, and that this government must not question the nobility of Venezuela's courts. For Mr. Roosevelt Gen. Castro entertains a warm admiration, and is convinced he is actuated by high principles and would take no action of an unjust or illegal character. Nor in the opinion of President Castro would the American people countenance anything of the kind. But Mr. Bowen has created a great deal of friction, so Dr. Paul stated, by his attitude generally toward the president and the Venezuelan government, and by the character of the demands he has made.

Castro for Arbitration.

Dr. Paul contended that Gen. Castro had repeatedly shown his belief in arbitration, and would willingly agree to such disposition of the asphalt dispute as was desired by the United States if the matter were in such shape as to warrant it. The other disputes between the two countries he regards as unimportant and capable of easy adjustment, provided the negotiations can be conducted through a representative of the United States who is persona grata.

None of the officials are surprised at President Castro's action in requesting Minister Bowen's recall. The minister himself had anticipated something of the kind. Every diplomat in Caracas is unpopular with the government because of his effort to secure redress for some injury done the subjects of his country, but Mr. Bowen seemed to be on a slightly better footing and it was thought he might be able to hold his post at least until some of the more important disputes were placed in the way of readjustment. But Mr. Bowen was too blunt for President Castro and too frequent in his use of "shirtsleeve" diplomacy.

Mexican Post for Bowen.

President Roosevelt does not propose and gave no assurances to Dr. Paul that he would take action which would even indirectly humiliate Minister Bowen. The latter has become unpopular through his efforts to protect American interests. This is a cause of unpopularity which is decidedly gratifying to the president. Therefore, Mr. Bowen will not be recalled immediately.

He eventually will be transferred to another place, and as it has been long known he would like to serve as ambassador to Mexico his name is mentioned in that connection. Mr. Conger, minister to China, who has been slated for Mexico, is not expected to accept the appointment, and this leaves a vacancy which some weeks ago it was announced would be filled by Mr. Loomis. The latter seems for some reason to have lost the chance and Mr. Bowen thus realizes his ambition.

STUDYING OCEAN CURRENTS THRU THE ICE

For nearly a hundred years man, conqueror of the remainder of the sphere on which we live, has placed among his chief ambitions a desire to set a triumphant foot, if only for a moment, upon both of those absolutely unknown and isolated points which science has placed at either end of the earth's axis—the North and the South Poles. The attempts to reach 90 degrees north latitude have been much more frequent and far more successful than have been the trials to conquer the vast ice-bound regions that lie about the highest point of farthest degree south. Yet the return of two expeditions in the "southern polar" regions—one that was made by the Germans in the Gauss and the other by the English in the Discovery—have added largely to our knowledge of places and conditions far more unknown than the area lying immediately about the North Pole. Moreover, it is undoubtedly a fact that there is every reason for believing that within 20 years the North Pole can be located and the flag of some enterprising nation planted where its imaginary line will protrude from the eternal ice of the Arctic Circle.

But the investigations of the Germans and English, who have spent two years in Antarctic waters, make it seem improbable that the South Pole will ever be set foot upon by man until some method of flying through the air has been perfected. Those scientists who have just returned from the South polar region have proved conclusively that the region of eternal ice extending out from the South Poles at least seven times as great in extent as that which hems in its northern sisters. This means a sledge journey that holds out no hope of reaching the at the extreme south of the globe are much more severe than those at the north. This due, of course, to the plane of its orbit about the sun. Moreover, as intense cold always tends to breed a further decrease in temperature, the vast ice fields around the Southern Pole are slowly, but surely, increasing in depth and area. So, while the world of science firmly believes that the North Pole will be reached within 20 years there is apparently no hope of man reaching the Southern limit of death so long as he is forced to travel over the surface of the globe. However, the true interests of science are not bound up with a mere reaching of an imaginary point at 90 degrees south latitude. The true scientific interest of South Polar expeditions lies in a study of the vegetable and animal life which, is still able to sustain its existence under Antarctic conditions. Where the Germans Made Their Attempt.

The Germans made use of Kerguelen Island, a dreary spot, deserving its second title of Desolation Island, as a rear base. It was discovered in 1772 by a Breton sailor named Kerguelen-Tremarec. The climate of the island is raw and storms are frequent and most of the interior is covered with an ice sheet. There are, however, numerous bays which form good harbors, and the position of the island renders it convenient as a base for various scientific observations. In 1874 it was visited by the Challenger and by the English, American and German expeditions to observe the transit of Venus. It was annexed by France in 1892.

It was from this island that the Gauss started on its southern journey towards Enderby Land after leaving a special observation party on the island, as it is essential in studying weather conditions or the change in the deflection of the magnetic needle that simultaneous observations should be made by two or more parties of observers. The Gauss behaved splendidly, although she was unable to reach very high latitudes. The ship was frozen at a point near some newly-discovered land in 89 degrees 48 minutes east longitude where the ice was 30 feet thick, while the snow lying on that ice ranged from 30 to 40 feet in depth. Sled journeys were made from these winter quarters, but it was found that many of the members were suffering from frostbite and snow blindness. Some very interesting and important observations concerning Antarctic weather were made, which together with those recorded by other expeditions, will help to solve the difficult problem of forecasting the world's weather. The terrific gales which exist in various parts of the Antarctic show it to be a sort of "Throne of the Winds," and until the action of such an extremely disturbing area is known, weather forecasters will not have all the necessary facts at their command for forecasting storms and hurricanes. The climatic conditions of the winter station of the Gauss showed clearly that the zone of the west winds had been left behind and a new climatic area had been entered. Plans That Have Vanished Recently.

Among the geographical results of the expedition is the discovery of the non-existence of the Termination Island, the site of which was sailed over by the Gauss, while no trace of land was to be seen in the neighborhood. A similar astonishing disappearance of land has occurred in the case of Wilkes Land, over one end of which the Discovery sailed. These two disappearances will serve to show how extremely cautious one has to be concerning the reality of certain islands and land in the Antarctic which have only been viewed at a distance by former travelers, who have not actually landed on the supposed lands.

Snowstorms the Worst Danger.
The severest enemy which the Gauss people had to contend with both in the neighborhood of the ship and on the numerous sledge expeditions were the sudden and unexpected snowstorms. They were often so thick that all land marks vanished and optical illusions appeared. When the snow would close down like a white sheet, small hillocks, which were quite close to the men, seemed suddenly to turn into huge ice mountains, and all standards of distance were entirely lost. A man who, in such a storm, which came down with the suddenness of a tropical thunder shower, should unfortunately be a hundred feet away from shelter, stood but very small chance, if alone, of ever gaining the ship unaided. A sailor once had to go on board from an ice hut, which was only 30 feet from the ship. He lost his way in this little distance and was not found until two hours afterwards, when the whole crew tied themselves together with long ropes. As the man was known to be on the north side of the up purposes put upon Gauss's expedition entirely unknown amid these ice-closed waters and snow mountains. The strange being turned its small dark head upon a close head attached gracefully to a black and white body. The creature made no effort to escape, and the expedition captured an "emperor penguin." The bird has a certain melancholy majesty about it and measured nearly four feet in height.

Prof. von Drygalski was the head of the Gauss expedition, and it is evident that the German leader was a bold investigator and a prudent organizer, to whom the real end of his mission was of such great importance that in the first reports little was said about the "courageous undertakings, bold defiance of death and cool, scientific observation under dangerous conditions. The original reports may possibly have been a little suppressive on this side of the expedition, but this is now made good in the full narrative, which is told with great descriptive power and dry humor. It was on February 14, 1902, that the Gauss reached the edge of the Antarctic ice; it was in the last days of the same month that it became frozen in.

The expedition was, therefore, forced to winter on the ice instead of on land, this peculiar situation rendering the sledge expeditions from the ship very difficult as it was impossible to know whether the return route would be intact when the hibernation bound toward the ship. Troops of emperor penguins, the strange animals that "swim on the ice and fly in the water," gave great amusement to the men. Some of the more inquisitive among the penguins would actually walk on board, and it was only under pressure of necessity that the crew brought themselves to kill these strange confiding birds. Drygalski sings a perfect song of praise to the Siberian and Kamchatka dogs, whose power of resisting cold was astonishing. In the severest snowstorms they would lie rolled together, quietly letting themselves get snowed up till only a hole was left for their spiky noses to breathe through. Deep-sea Diving Under the Ice.

But while neither the German nor the English expeditions to the South Pole made any marked advances over previous attempts to reach the pole itself, the men in studying the counter underwaters dangers which could not have been surpassed in severity if the pole had actually been reached. For, not only were the ice conditions studied and what few animals and plants that could be found, but even beneath the icy waters of the Antarctic Ocean investigations were made and the results written out and tabulated for scientific records. It seems almost unbelievable that the professional diver who accompanied the Gauss should have had the hardihood to put on his rubber and metal suit and, dropping through a hole 14 feet deep, slowly sink 30 feet below the ice-covered surface to a point where even the frigid temperature of the Antarctic circle was powerless to affect the life on the floor of the ocean surrounding the South Pole. This feature of the exploration is undoubtedly the most marvelous of all. Deep-sea diving has never been attempted before either in the Northern or Southern polar ocean.

A study of the results of the Antarctic expedition, aside from the establishment of the scientific details, is most interesting to the general public as proving beyond any doubt that the Antarctic region is even more inhospitable and impossible for human purposes than the Northern regions of eternal ice. Those adventurous spirits who yearn to seek glory in finding the earth's pole are not warned to confine their exertions to trying to locate the North Pole. As for the southern end of the earth's axis, nature has surrounded it with a natural protection built up of hundreds of miles of mountain ranges formed from the slowly increasing ice cap that rests its untold weight upon the Southern Pole. The vast magnitude of this southern ice cap can be best expressed to the ordinary imagination by the single statement that should these mountain ranges of ice suddenly melt through some marvelous cause, as if, for example, the South Pole should be struck by a huge comet, the melting of the Antarctic ice cap over night would submerge every continent on the globe, destroy the balance of the earth on its axis and within a swift period of time remove every trace of living life off the surface of the globe.

ALL SORTS.

It is to be regretted that current history does not keep track of the couples who get married in balloons and to win bets.

Lots of women would like to stay at home and look after the children and the house, but if they did their friends would say their husbands were brutes.

Now comes the scientist with the claim that kissing is healthy. Will it not be wise to get this question settled once for all before the vacation season begins?

The other day a man who had never been four miles from home told us exactly how the Panama canal should be dug and then refused to listen when we wanted to tell him how to build his new house.

Very few men, when encased in a two hundred dollar fur lined overcoat, can refrain from telling about how they used to go all winter with no overclothing except a knitted scarf and a pair of mittens.

A WOMAN IS NEVER OLD—

Who allows herself to think only of pleasant things.

Who trains her tongue to utter only pleasant words.

Who never allows herself to become stony and careless in appearance.

Who remembers that frowns are unbecoming and that smiles are better.

Who enters into the plans, and as far as possible into the doings of the young people about her.

"Good morning, Higgy," said the haggiebug to the higgiebug as they met on the street the other day. "How are you?"
"Very fine, I thank you, Higgy," replied the higgiebug. "How are you?"
"Oh, I am always well," answered the haggiebug, "except now, you know, my business is brisk and I am just a wee bit overworked."

"I'M A DOCTOR," DECLARED THE HIGGIEBUG.

be able to attend to it all. By the way, Higgy, what business are you in now?"
"I'm a barber," answered the haggiebug.

"A barber?" exclaimed the higgiebug. "And what do you do as a barber?"
"Why, mercy, man, haven't you heard?" cried the haggiebug in surprise.

"No," said the higgiebug. "What is it?"

"Well, the caterpillars have adopted the new style of having their heads bald, and my business is to shave the caterpillars. There are lots of them, and it keeps me busy day and night doing the work."

"You must be making a great deal of money," said the higgiebug.

"Yes, indeed," replied the haggiebug. "By the way, what business are you in?"

"I'm a doctor," declared the higgiebug.

"A doctor?" exclaimed the haggiebug. "And what do you do as a doctor?"

"My, my, my! Don't you know?" cried the higgiebug in surprise.

"No," said the haggiebug. "What is it?"

"Well, the grasshoppers have adopted the new style of wearing long whiskers, and I furnish them with a face powder to bring out their beards. They use a great deal of the powder, and I am kept busy night and day mixing it for them."

"I suppose you will soon be rich," said the haggiebug.

"I hope so," responded the higgiebug.

"Well, goodby, Higgy," said the haggiebug as he passed on down the street.

"Goodby, Higgy," answered the haggiebug.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

REFORM IS IN THE AIR.

There has never been a time in the history of the nation when the cry for reform was so prevalent as it is today. From the National capitol and reaching out through various states and municipalities reform is the watchword. The air is full of it, and to the casual observer it would appear that corruption stalked abroad at noonday and that the people were struggling helplessly against a tide of wickedness heretofore unparalleled.

Many of the leading magazines, known as the literary class, devote space freely to correspondents who have a grievance, and these productions are eagerly read and endorsed by a class of intelligent people who imagine that they have a grievance. The Lawson articles have paved the way for this class of literature, and Bryan, La Follette and scores of other writers are out hot-foot in appeals to prejudice. The beef trust has recently been attacked and the statement is made that this combine is satisfied with a two per cent profit on beef, so long as it controls transportation companies which yield a profit of 16 per cent.

Railroads are denounced, and corporate wealth maligned until public sentiment is coming to regard a man as next door to a criminal, who holds stock of this class.

The city of Chicago in a spasm of this sort of reform, is about to decide on Municipal ownership of public utilities, and the chances are more than even that within a year the citizens of that city will be attempting to float $250,000,000 worth of bonds to consummate this wild and wooly project.

Public ownership and public control are the entering wedges of socialism, and the country is experimenting with this damnable doctrine. Property rights are lightly regarded, and unless a halt is called in time, results will be most disastrous.

The business and industrial world is fully alive to these conditions, but their representatives are in the minority. The man who owns the factory has but one vote, and but little influence with the men in his employ.

The cause of this unrest which is so prevalent today, is too much prosperity. For the past few years, any man who was disposed to work, has been able to find employment at good wages, and in many instances he has been able to dictate the number of hours, and amount of production.

practical about many of the reforms which are so popular today.

METHODS ARE GREATER ROB-BERS THAN MEN.

Lord Brougham is credited with having written: "The lawyer is a gentleman who rescues your property from your enemies, and keeps it to himself."

Even nowadays we sometimes pay too high a price for protection against our enemies.

A merchant finds that a competitor is taking away some of his trade, and in his efforts to get it back he selects advertising methods which cost more than the recovered trade would be worth.

In business—especially in advertising—we are robbed by methods of tenor than by men.

A modern newspaper represents the perfected machinery of publicity. Compared to it, "programming," "postering," "placarding," "circularizing," "souveniring," and related methods, are as the mule-cart to the express train.

A merchant whose cashier turns embezzler is unfortunate; but a merchant whose judgment turns embezzler is still more unfortunate.

In buying publicity a merchant is really buying results, income, patronage, "Busy-Days." And, sometimes, he buys and pays for these things without any assurance of their delivery. He would not make large purchases of cloth from a man whose factory was "in his hat," and whose ability to deliver the cloth could not be even inferred—but he occasionally buys and pays for "publicity" in that way.

The merchant who keeps a receptive ear for the last word of human experience will see that, when his trade is rescued from his competitors, it is delivered to him. Judicious newspaper advertising does so deliver it; the other kinds of "advertising" do not.

The Second ward political pot is boiling. The general opinion is that the position of alderman belongs to some man who is not seeking notoriety of a questionable character, but who represents the best interests of the ward. Attendance at every council is not the most essential thing in being an alderman.

Some one blundered. It seems Mr. Matheson was not the instigator of the Racine street bridge but that given the democratic candidate for Mayor recommended it.

The fight is on in the Fifth. What it will result in is not yet known but the prospects are for a merry knife at the polls.

Make the motto Janesville "first, last and always" and then the proposed and talked of boom for the city will come without anyone knowing it, yet shared in by everyone.

Evenings have become longer and as the weather becomes warmer the small boy will revel in the delights of the extra hour of play.

Do not forget that the Fourth of July celebrations help to make Janesville famous.

The oldest inhabitant has not yet come forth and told how high the water was in the spring of 1830.

Rock river has stood still for twenty-four hours. Now it will begin to go down slowly.

Golfers have already begun taking interest in things now the spring weather has come.

Spring fever is a disease that even the doctors can not ally.

PRESS COMMENT.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Of course it is rather hard on the fat girl to learn that wasp waists will be in fashion this year.

Chicago Record-Herald: A volcano has made Japan larger by giving her a new island. The stars in their courses are fighting for the Japs.

Chicago News: Castro's lieutenant wants to invade the United States with 30,000 men. Why 30,000? Thirty would achieve exactly the same general results.

Milwaukee Journal: The small waist is coming back into style, but there is some doubt as to how long it will be popular, for man has discovered that after all it lacks staying power.

Fond du Lac Bulletin: Pretty Ada Howes of Wilkesbarre caught four bullets fired by her jealous sweet heart in her corset steels and escaped injury. Respectfully referred to the Wisconsin legislature.

Minneapolis Tribune: In Hartford, Ind., a colored preacher prayed for a good flow of oil and as soon as the well was shot a monster stream began to flow.

Oshkosh Northwestern: A proposition has been made to the Illinois legislature to discourage divorce by prohibiting the payment of alimony. The trouble with this scheme, however, might be that it would tend to encourage divorce on the male side.

Milwaukee News: Let's see: Didn't Governor La Follette's platform pledge the people that the anti-pass law would be strengthened? Is that part of "the work" to be neglected? Is the platform pledge to be repudiated? Is "reform" growing weary of its own unbecomings?

La Crosse Chronicle: Somebody ought to thank the Fond du Lac Roporter for sticking a hat pin into that absurd story to the effect that General O. O. Howard is the only living American officer who commanded an army of 150,000 strong. He never commanded one-third that number of men.

El Paso Herald: Every race has its day, but it is a significant fact that the only foreign holiday that Americans unanimously remember and pretty generally observe is good St. Patrick's. Everywhere in the country the green ribbon was shown March 17. The Irish are popular in America.

Lake Geneva News: We have been waiting, patiently waiting, for some stalwart newspapers to print the news of Wisconsin's good fortune in having the balance of her war claim allowed. The amount that will be paid by the federal government is $725,931.88. This makes a grand total of $1,186,412.78 secured by La Follette. Why don't they say something?

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The proposition to transfer the schools for the deaf in Wisconsin from the department of education to the board of control, finds small favor in Fond du Lac. The school for the deaf in this city has been doing excellent work for a number of years and it would be seriously crippled by the contemplated change. What is even of more importance is the fact that the pupils who suffer from this unfortunate affliction would themselves be placed at a great disadvantage were they taken away from their home school and sent to Delavan.

Appleton Crescent: A new cement industry is the making of shingles out of cement. It is said that they cost about as much as slate roofing but are superior in that they are made with ridges and grooves which fit together and prevent water backing in between them.

Last spring an old customer of our—Mr. J. Miller of Eastern avenue—came to us, saying that his house was painted the year before with lead and oil; that the same was scaling off, needing repainting at once. We recommended Heath & Milligan Paint. Read his story:

"Two years ago I painted my house with lead and oil, costing me $38.50. The next spring I had to repaint. My friend, Mr. Pfennig, of the Badger Drug Co., sold me Heath & Milligan Paint. I repainted the house. It cost me $18.25 for paint, work and extra work of scraping old paint off. I saved $10.25 and my house today looks as good as new. I don't want any more lead and oil."

STANNARD THE HIGH GUN

Another Match Will Be Held in This City Sometime in July—A League Formed.

What was the most successful live-bird and target match ever held in Janesville took place yesterday under the auspices of the Janesville Gun club. Both live birds and clay pigeons furnished amusement for the thirty-six shots and the hundred-odd spectators who were present. A high south wind made the live-bird shooting a problem even for the oldest shots present and the "outlaws" who stood outside the grounds to pot the lucky pigeons who escaped the tournament, had but little better luck. Guy Dering of Columbus captured the first money in this event, killing twelve out of his fifteen chances. In the clay-pigeon contest, W. D. Stannard, a former Janesville resident, carried off the high-gun score by killing 104 out of 115 birds sprung from the traps. Pierstorff of Middleton was second with 99 and William McVicar third with 97.

A League Formed
Janesville is to become a member of the Southern Wisconsin Trap Shooters' league, which is composed of teams from the following cities: Madison, Monroe, Darlington, Albany, Brodhead, Wayne, New Glarus, Monticello, Beloit and Janesville. It is now planned to have a big open tournament here in July, at which time all the crack shots of the country will be invited to take part. Letters received from the leading shots of the country by Secretary "Jack" McVicar of the local club, expressed regret of many of the writers at being unable to be present yesterday, but promising their appearance at the next meet of the club. It is due to Mr. McVicar's hard work and careful management that the tournament yesterday was so successful and he has been warmly complimented by the visitors on the arrangements. Beloit police are looking for the twelve- and thirteen-year-old youngsters who came to Janesville to "see the show" on Tuesday and after spending the night in the lock-up started to walk back to the city on the following morning. It is known that they arrived in their home town Wednesday as they were seen hanging around Keep athletic field that evening but neither their parents nor the police have been able to locate them. Ambrose Cleary, the elder of the two, is a son of Attorney Francis Cleary and James Howard is a son of Anthony Howard. The youngsters ran away from home and are trying to tramp life for a change.

ELECTRIC SIGN A THING OF BEAUTY

Janesville Man Invents a New Advertising Medium for Stores.

Mr. C. H. Messer, an electrician of this city, has invented a new electric sign, the first of its kind ever placed in practical use and one which bids fair to bring fame and fortune to the inventor. It is being manufactured and sold at a price which enables any merchant to afford to have at least two. Its simplicity, durability and beautiful effect make it the most practical sign ever placed upon the market. It may be operated with gas or electricity, operating equally as well with one as the other. Practical gas signs have heretofore been unknown, but now one is placed on the market that will operate with gas, using what is known as the Bunsen burner. This is equipped with a Madgett mantle and consumes about one foot of gas per hour, thereby costing about one-eighth of a cent an hour to operate. The two cuts here represent the sign with the electric attachments, namely: the incandescent lamp, the color changing cylinder and the case. Cut No. 1 shows the lamp placed in position with color changing cylinder removed. This cylinder is a drum made of colored mica, in the top of which is a thermocouple or fan of fire-proof material. In the center of this fan is a small inverted metal cup, which partly supports the cylinder, when same is placed in position. In assembling the parts, the color cylinder is placed over the inverted electric lamp. When the lamp is lighted, heat accumulates in the cylinder, which is rotated by the circulation of air from the bottom to the top. As this rotation continues various colors are thrown over the transparency, upon which is placed ed the advertising matter. Cut No. 2 shows sign case with front removed and cylinder in position. The advantage of this sign over the flashing variety, is that it is lighted constantly and the cheapness with which it can be operated. It is peculiarly adapted to display windows, owing to the ease with which the advertising matter can be changed. Mr. Messer came here from Chicago four years ago and is a member of the American Institute of United Electrical Contractors. He has organized a company known as the Wisconsin Electrical Manufacturing Co. with offices at 425 Hayes block. They have orders for a number of these signs and are engaged in making them in large quantities.

Look Pleasant, Please.

Photographers—Now, Mr. Hornhand, imagine for a few minutes that your corn crop had overrun all estimates and that when you had it ready for market there was a freight-rate war on between the railroad companies.

RIVER HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

ROCK RISES TO MAXIMUM OF JUST YEAR AGO.

SIGHT FALL AT INDIAN FORD

Was Reported This Morning, and Waters, It Is Believed, Will Begin to Recede.

History repeats itself in the instance of the Rock river which today, above the dam, rose to the maximum height for 1904, noted on March 31. Below the dam it was a fraction of an inch below last year's record mark. P. H. Korst of the Electric Light Co. stated that word had been received from Indian Ford that the stream was falling, and he was inclined to think that there had been a slight drop here early this morning, after a rise of over an inch during the night.

Not at Danger Point

City Engineer Kerch said: "The danger point has not been reached yet but if the water gets much higher we will have to take precautions. In an extreme situation it might be deemed necessary to take the apron out of the upper dam, though many would deem this a doubtful expedient. The flow in the race could be reduced to some extent and it might be advisable to hold the stream back with a dam at Fourth avenue." Mr. Kerch was of the opinion that the maximum flow had been reached and that the flood would commence to recede very soon.

Subway Is Flooded

The interurban subway under the St. Paul railroad crossing, about eight miles south of here, has filled up with water and it is necessary to run cars on either side of it to Beloit and Janesville and to transfer passengers. All the lowlands in the locality have been submerged and present the appearance of a small lake. The time schedules of the cars, however, have not been interfered with.

Jefferson Suffers Most

Of all the communities located on the banks of the river, Jefferson seems to have suffered most. The city is practically cut off on three sides by the high water in the Rock and Crawfish, and it is only with the greatest difficulty that passage can be effected by means of horses and wagons. The Lake Mills road leading to that city from the west is under water west of the bridge crossing the Crawfish river. On the south the Main street bridge has been condemned. On the southeast the water has risen so high that people living near Rock river have been forced to remove their stock from their barns. One family has also been forced to vacate its dwelling and the neighbors can reach their houses only by boats. The lower floor of the C. Stoppenbach packing plant is entirely under water. The Farnholm Lumber company's factory, basement and engine room are flooded, and the Jefferson woolen mills and the flour mills have been forced to discontinue operations.

Slow Order for Trains

The water is close to the tracks of the North-Western on the Afton branch, below the woolen mills, in this city, and all trains are proceeding under slow orders. The road-bed was ripped up with stone last year and no washout is anticipated unless the water should rise a half a foot higher. The St. Paul switch bridge just below the lower dam is said to be shaky but trains are still running over it. The water from the race has gotten into the gutters and on the tracks on North River street.

Dr. Wm. Horne Speaks

Dr. William Horne, the accepted authority on the high-water question, has had little to say about the river until this time. He now declares that his gauge, located just one block from the Court street bridge, shows the stream to be just one inch higher than it has been before in his 44 years' residence, with the exception of the spring of 1881 when the dam went out. His observations show that the water gained half an inch yesterday morning, another half inch yesterday afternoon, and rose 1 1/2 inches during the night.

BELOIT MODESTLY WANTS THE MONEY

Seeks to Have Andrew Carnegie Present the Congressional School with Big Sum.

Five of the smaller western colleges, Beloit, Knox, Grinnell, Colorado and Washburn university, will ask Andrew Carnegie for $5,000,000, according to news dispatches today from New York. It is said that these schools will petition the steel king for a cool million apiece and that eastern authority admits that there is a very good chance that they will receive the requests. It is said that heretofore Mr. Carnegie has steadily refused to give to any educational institution, with one or two exceptions, but that it is now known that he is looking more kindly at just such sterling colleges in the west as Beloit. Horace White, editor of the New York Evening Post, who has done so much for his alma mater, is one of the chief movers in this matter. He with other alumni of Beloit, together with J. C. Brewer, James H. Ekeels and W. C. Brown, of the other institutions, are helping along the work. President Eaton of Beloit college is the chairman of the committee appointed to present the needs and claims of the schools to Mr. Carnegie and this will be done soon. The other members of the committee are President McClelland of Knox and Simon of Colorado. They will also endeavor to interest several wealthy New Yorkers in the small colleges of America and especially the west.

DUCK-EGGS MAY HAVE COME FROM IRA BINGHAM'S WELL

H. L. Skavlem Offers to Light up Certain Clouded Details of Incubator Story.

Ever since the Rhinelander-incubator-hatchery-for-wild-ducks-story appeared in the Gazette certain persistent ones who always insist on reducing a thing to its last analysis, have not ceased to wonder right out loud where the supply of raw material—the eggs—for such an institution came from. H. L. Skavlem offers this solution: Some years ago when Ira Bingham was sinking his artesian well at Lake Koshong he struck a whole mine of canvasback eggs some twenty feet below the surface. Hunters had long observed these birds diving in the middle of the lake and fall to reappear again and Mr. Bingham's discovery not only accounted for this phenomenon but showed a motive—they were seeking their subterranean nests far beyond the shore line. Some such mine as Mr. Bingham's has undoubtedly been discovered by the Rhinelander sportsmen, according to Mr. Skavlem's theory.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday,
March 31, 1865.—Taken Prisoner.—It is believed that Major Randall, son of Hon. E. Randall of this city, was taken prisoner in a fight on Saturday last. Though nothing directly has been received from the Major himself, his father does not doubt his capture.

The "Combat Deepens"—From a hand bill about the streets, we infer that there is to be a "gay old time" at the Hyatt house hall next Monday evening at which time and place Judge Noggle invites his friends and enemies to be present.
Performance is to commence at seven o'clock precisely. Admission free.
Music by the entire band. For particulars "see small bills."

At a meeting of the Union Electors of the Fourth Ward of the city of Janesville, held at the office of G.
Nettelton, March 29, 1865, Wm. Maclennan was chosen chairman and G. H.
Williston, secretary. G. Nettelton,
H. Richardson, E. S. Burrows, G. S.
Strasburger, A. McDougall, J. E. Hy-zer, William Merrill and Wm. Maclennan were elected delegates to the city convention, to be held at the Council Room, April 1st, 1865, and were authorized to appoint substitutes in case of inability to attend,
in the defense of his country's flag.

F. E. Eldred was unanimously nominated for alderman and A. H. Johnson for constable.
G. S. Strasburger, Willard Merrill and H. Richardson were elected ward committee for the ensuing year.

The Nurse and Spy.—Mr. Aaron
Ames of this city has been appointed canvassing agent to sell a new and interesting work just issued from the press, entitled, "The Nurse and the Spy," by Miss S. E. E. Edmunds.
The book details some of the incidents in the eventful life of Miss Edmunds, while serving her country, in the capacity of a nurse in the hospitals, attending to the wants and relieving the necessities of the sick and wounded soldiers, or as contraband in disguise, inside the rebel lines, gaining valuable information for Federal Generals. It is not strange that such a record should be one of the features of romance and it only adds another to many evidences of the truth of the saying that truth is indeed stranger than fiction. The book is not only one of the most meritorious and thrilling interest, but the canvassing agent, Mr. Ames, has an additional claim upon the sympathy of the public, as he gave his only son to the Union cause, who fell
in the defense of his country's flag.

WRITE OF THEIR TRIP TO CHINA

MR. F. ELLIS RECEIVES LETTER FROM NEPHEW AND WIFE.

MR. AND MRS. E. W. ELLIS

Tell of Visits in Japanese and Chinese Cities—Short Stop at Honolulu.

Mr. F. Ellis, who resides at 260 Center Ave. has received a letter from his nephew, Emery V. Ellis who is now a missionary with his wife in China. Mr. and Mrs. Emery V. Ellis visited in this city last June before going to their field of labor in the east and won a number of warm friends among Janesville residents. From here Mr. and Mrs. Ellis went to Nebraska where they visited relatives for a time and finally in October left Seattle for Honolulu on their way to China. They have jointly written concerning their trip, and describe briefly a few of the things they saw on their visits at the stopping places in Japan and China. They are now located at Peking, China. To Chou, via Shanghai and Tsingtau, and the letter is dated from that place. Following are given extracts from this missive:

The Trip Over
After our farewells in the home state, Nebraska, we went to Seattle to visit Plymouth church which has adopted us. They gave us a welcome beyond our fondest dreams and made us feel that we were really one of them. Everything possible was done for us while we were there and as we came away they put into our hands—or rather into our arms—a "mailbag" which contained parcels and letters enough to last across the Pacific. They were such a source of pleasure and inspiration to us. Likewise a number of steamer letters from many of you who do not live in Seattle were a blessing to us.

Not Sea-Sick
You will want to know if we were seasick. So we will tell you first of all that while we did not miss a meal, there were two or three days when we wanted to be up on deck in the fresh air—or asleep. With this exception we read and studied and worked with our camera as if we were at home on land. The weather was beautiful all the way to Nagasaki, except the last night. Then again the voyage to Shanghai was simply splendid. But coming up to Tientsin on a small Chinese coaster, we had some rough weather with the subsequent rolling and pitching of the vessel.

A Large Party
There was in all, eighty-five of "us" missionaries on the "Mongolia." We found in two of these especially just the companions we had hoped to find. They added much to our pleasure and our growth in better things. There were daily prayer-meetings with the friends going out under the great Chilly mission. Those were a source of inspiration. So with prayer-meetings, bible study, camera and games we spent the time with pleasure and profit.

Honolulu was our first stop and we were glad for the pleasant day—it registered no less than eighty-six in the shade. Tropical fruits and flowers, royal palms and hibiscus hedges were to be seen everywhere. As only six hours was granted to us, we had to be contented with a street-car ride to the top of the "Punch Bowl," the crater of an extinct volcano. It was a climb, but the view of the city and harbor below us was worth the effort. The change of the weather just before reaching Japan was a surprise to us. The day before we reached the Japanese coast marked a change and the Sunday in Yokohama was almost like winter. A most cordial welcome was given us at the Union church and Sunday school. Sunday there and Monday at Tokio gave us our first glimpse of Japan life. The relative scarcity of beggars, the cleanliness of the narrow streets, the intense cultivation, even to the terracing of steep hill sides to gain a

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE.

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics"

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food properly digested. There is no other way and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous and on a par with the fold-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy, that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure stomach trouble by the use of "tonics," "pills" and "cathartics" which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass bottle at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets, because it is not only the sick and ailing, but well people who use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well, prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

few feet of ground, the odd English signs—these were some of the things that we noticed. The leaves were just beginning to turn so that the landscape was beautiful with autumnal colorings. The bamboo groves with their graceful green foliage were in contrast with the colors on the higher hills. Our first jinx-sha ride was on our way over to call on our veteran missionaries, Dr. and Mrs. D. C. Greene. They told us some of the wonderful changes that God had brought since their coming to the Sunrise Kingdom in 1899. At that time, there were only four native Christians in all Japan.

Stop at Kobe
Kobe was our next port. The Kobe Girls' School of Our Woman's Board is located there and a splendid work it is doing. It has an inspiration to see what Christian training was doing for those bright-eyed, sweet-faced girls! At the regular prayer meeting, we found Dr. Holbrook, Miss Royt, Miss Seares, Miss Goodman and the Atkinsons. Mr. Atkinson gave an account of the burial of Russians found on the battlefield by the Japanese. Not only were they decently buried but a cross was placed on each grave on which was written in Japanese characters: "brave and loyal." November third was the emperor's birthday so we had the benefit of the display and the preparations of the soldiers for review. On a number of occasions we saw wounded soldiers either carried on litters or transported by train. There were many evidences of the war on every side. We celebrated the emperor's birthday by going to Kioto and enjoying the coveted opportunity of seeing that great Christian university, the Doshisha. It was our privilege to enjoy the hospitality of Dr. Cary, whose book, "The Regeneration of Japan," we studied under Dr. Hitchcock last spring. We caught a glimpse of Miss Vainwright and heard a little of the special patriotic program in the chapel.

Beautiful Voyage
The voyage between ports in Japan was beautiful. We were never out of sight of land and the mountain scenery was grand. First the great towering snow-capped summit of Fujiyama, then we passed an active volcano and watched the smoke curling out from its crest, and through the inland Sea the mountains and ocean seemed to be contending for supremacy. We spent two days at Nagasaki and could well believe the report that it is the most beautiful harbor in the world. We stayed at the Christian Endeavor Seamen's home, but more "guests" than "boarders." Mr. Thornberry took us to Nagasaki and it was most enjoyable. The road wound over the hills and the Jihrik men trotted along slow enough to allow us to enjoy the landscape. The hills were terraced almost to their very tops, which from a distance had the appearance of staircases. We walked part of the way back and added a violet and some pretty Japanese flowers to our collection of shells from the beach. This was the great Shinto Festival and the processions that passed through the streets testified to the need of the Christian faith. Our hearts are often touched as we see the worshippers in the heathen temples.

Off to Shanghai
At Nagasaki we transhipped for Shanghai, taking the "Prinz Heinrich" of the North German Lloyd. This good ship took us to the mouth of the Yangtze opposite Wusung. The steam launch was on hand the next morning to take us the ten remaining miles to the Bund. We were glad to observe the enormous amount of shipping done here. The flags of every nation can be seen in Shanghai if anywhere in the Orient. We saw the Compound of the China, Indian mission and dined with Mr. and Mrs. Hinman, our C. E. representative in China. The coasting voyage was uneventful same that the storm compelled us to put into the harbor of Wei Hai Wei. The evening previous we had passed within view of the searchlight of Porth Arthur. Japanese warships preceded us into that harbor and the four Levantines of war which England is keeping there followed us out of the harbor.

Land at Tientsin
The landing at Tientsin was unique. The ticket-read "Tianku or Tientsin" but Tuesday evening found us a day late and anchored outside the bar of the Pei Ho. Fifty-three miles from Tientsin. Because of the likelihood of having to wait some days before reaching the city, if we stayed by ship, we gladly accepted the kind offer of transportation in the custom's launch which came for the wife of Tientsin's postmaster. But the launch was unable to get over the bar. But just then a Chinese tug came along and we were passed over to the tug. I was able to cross the bar of sand and our hearts began to beat faster as we realized that our prayers and ours would soon be answered in a safe arrival in North China!

Empress' Birthday
In Tientsin, the birthday of the empress Dowager was being celebrated and the Y. M. C. A. was establishing a branch in then alien city. We saw a little of both. Of the former, we saw the surging crowds, through which a way was made for us because we were foreigners. We saw the still walkers, the jugglers, the dancers and even neaped into the Yamen and saw the Viceroy himself in his gorgeous yellow robes. As we started for our beds the Tuckers announced the possibility of reaching Peking Chung by Thanksgiving. There had been ice the early part of the week but it seemed that after we started, each day grew warmer.

Owners of Plattville Concern Are Looking Over Janesville for a Location.

A. T. Rogers, of Madison and Victor Rogers of Plattville, stockholders in the Plattville Cement Post Co., visited Janesville yesterday and looked over possible sites for the location of their plant in this city. They were well pleased with the grade of sand in the hills at the foot of South Main street and expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the removal to this city. The plant gives employment to a good sized force of men and would be a welcome addition to the industries here. Removal from Plattville is necessitated by the inability to secure a good grade of sand where the concern is now located.

PREDICTS RAIN, HAIL AND SNOW

PARSON HICKS' FORECAST FOR MONTH OF APRIL.

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING, TOO
Advices Farmers Not to Sow on the Lowlands in Certain Parts of the Country.

Following the beautiful weather of March will come thirty days of continued rains with heavy fall of water according to Rev. Ira Hicks, the long range weather forecaster. He states the month to ride in on a storm period commenced in March and central on the first of April, culminating the third and fourth. The Vulcan force, the continued Vernal equinox, with Moon on the equator, in apogee and at new, are the disturbing causes at this period. April will open with falling barometer and threatening conditions in western parts. These conditions will increase as they advance eastward, ending in rain, thunder and wind, turning to snow in the north, on and touching the third and fourth. High barometer and change to cooler weather and frosts will follow the western side of these storms and dominate the weather generally for several days following.

Minimum Storm Period
The second storm period is reactionary and central on the seventh and eighth, the only causes bearing on this period being the reaction of the Vulcan and the disappearing influence of the Earth's Vernal equinox. Storm breeding causes would seem to be at a minimum at this period and consequently disturbances are likely to prove comparatively moderate. The barometer will fall, the temperature will rise, and April showers ending in a change to cooler, with probable spits of snow and northward, may be expected on and about the seventh and eighth. Cool weather with frosts at night will follow for some days.

April Showers to Storms
From the eleventh to the fifteenth and central on the thirteenth is the third and regular storm period. It falls at the ending of the Earth's equinox, and the beginning of both the Mercury and Venus periods, so that all these forces, added to the Vulcan and Moon at first quarter, will be disturbing factors at this period. The normal tendencies to cloudiness and April showers, always to be expected during this month, will grow into decided storm conditions about the twelfth. The barometer will warn of coming storms. Winds will shift to southerly, the temperature will rise to very warm, and during the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth active violent storms of rain, hail, thunder and wind will pass eastwardly across the country. If the Venus influence impinges early upon this period, with any decided force, tornadoes are possible. In such event, the barometer and other plain indications will give an unmistakable local warning in good time. The united Mercury and Venus influences will cause a spell of continued threatening, if not rainy, stormy weather up to the next storm period.

More Decided Storms
The fourth and reactionary storm period is central on the eighteenth nineteenth and twentieth. It is well into the Venus disturbance, at the center of the Mercury period, with the Moon at its full, and in perigee near the equator. The barometer will prove a trustworthy admonitor; its fall will be followed by clouds. Electrical storms with rain and hail, and possible danger, may be looked for on and next to the twentieth. It is also quite probable that late sleet and snow will visit northern sections at this time, all followed by high barometer, cold northwesterly winds, and several nights of general frosts over central to northern parts of the country.

Much Rain and Hail
Extending from the twenty-third to the twenty-seventh and having its center on the twenty-fourth is the fifth and regular storm period. The astronomical causes bearing on this period are Venus, Mercury, Vulcan and Moon at the extreme south declination and last quarter. The indications are that general and very active storms will appear during this period. A very low barometer may be put down as almost positive assurance that violent, if not dangerous storms are brewing. The crisis of the period will fall on and touching Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the twenty-fourth, fifth and sixth. Excessive rainfalls over central to southern and southwestern parts of the country are more than probable at this period. Many violent hail storms will be normal, as the normal tendency to hail is always great during the past part of April, while Venus—the great electric and hail producing cause, combined with Mercury and Vulcan, bears directly on this fifth storm period. At the winding up to this period a spurt of late snow and sleet visiting the northern parts of the country, with cool, frosty nights, spreading further southward, should not surprise.

Thunder Storms; Hail
The last storm period, the sixth, is reactionary. It is central on the last two days of April and reaches over into May. The period is near the center of the Venus equinox, with Moon on the celestial equator on the thirteenth. The most intense electrical storms occur during the Venus periods in spring and summer and it is also a fact that Moon's passage over the celestial equator greatly increases the tendency to lightning and thunder, and as a result on the last day of the month vicious thunder storms with much rain and hail may be reasonably looked for. A sudden change to very cool will follow these electrical storms, with great probability of frosts during the opening nights of May over many parts both central and northward. In all central, southwestern and northeastern extremes, Parson Hicks advises farmers to delay planting low lands.

FOLA LA FOLLETTE AS A LEGISLATOR

Has Special Bill Relative to Dramatics Introduced into the Assembly.

Miss Fola La Follette, the actress daughter of Governor R. M. La Follette of Wisconsin, has taken up the cause of her profession in an active legislative manner, by securing the introduction of a bill in the assembly to prevent the stealing or plagiarizing of plays and operas. The bill was roughly drafted by the governor's daughter and perfected by the governor and his wife. It was fathered by Assemblyman Warner, the La Follette leader in the lower house of the legislature, and through his influence introduced as from the assembly committee on judiciary yesterday.

The interests of Miss La Follette is said, perhaps unkindly, to be advertising. It is remarked at Madison that she is, like her distinguished father, ambitious, and has a keen appreciation of the value of gratuitous newspaper exploitation. In this thought it is recalled that last summer, her first on the stage, she was the subject of a sensational "poisoning story" in which it was represented that she ate of a salad that contained deadly poison, became deathly sick, but with great nerve insisted upon going on with her part in the little role of "Esmeralda." No alarm was occasioned the governor's household by this report. This incident happened in Wisconsin and it was repeated six weeks later in Indiana.

Persons more friendly to Miss La Follette insist that her interest in the anti-plagiarism bill is genuine and that she earnestly desires to do something toward securing legislation that will cure an evil which she has become familiar during her brief career on the dramatic stage. Assemblyman Warner insists that the bill is introduced most seriously and that the piracy of plays and operas is so general and causes so much hardship to the profession of playwrights that it ought to be the subject of criminal enactment.

Miss La Follette's bill provides that "any person who sells a copy or a substantial copy or who causes to be publicly performed or represented for profit any unpublished or undedicated dramatic play or musical composition known as an opera, without the consent of its owner or proprietor or who knowing that such a dramatic play or musical composition is unpublished or undedicated and without the consent of its owner or proprietor permits, aids or takes part in such a performance or representation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $200 or by imprisonment not less than 30 days nor more than three months or both."

A GOOD AFTER-DINNER CIGAR.

The Smith Drug Company Says The Chicos Just Fill The Bill.

The time to enjoy a real good cigar is after a good dinner. "There is no better time to test the quality of Wadsworth Bros' Chicos than to light one right after a hearty meal," says Mr. Ed. Smith of the Smith Drug Company. It just fills the bill for a good after-dinner cigar.

It is clear, long Havana filler of superior quality, and the size is exactly right. The Smith Drug Company say they have sold more Chicos since they introduced this brand in Janesville than they ever sold before of any brand in four times as long. This shows how well it pleases the smoker who enjoys a good cigar. Considering its superior quality the price at which it sells, five cents straight, is a surprise. Step into the Smith Drug Company's store today Mr. Smoker, and get a pocket full of Wadsworth Bros' Chicos.
